Being a MAAT accountant, I am now undergoing Chartered Accountancy qualifications (ACA). Accountancy is a family affair and truly runs in our blood with most of my family members being qualified accountants. I take pride in my grandfather having ran his practice until his late 70's and he is an example for me to follow. Besides being senior accountant, I am one of Chartright's partners and directors. It is so thrilling to see our business going from strength to strength. Although being fully qualified and experienced in the matters of personal and business taxes, I will speak to you in plain English, avoiding any accounting jargon, no frills. I love my job here and our company's ethos as we have set these to enable our employees to achieve their goals, those of the business and of our clients. One of our mottoes is integrity: We are honest, open, ethical, loyal and fair. Our clients trust us to protect their best interests and I work hard to ensure that this continues. In my personal life, I am a busy mum with three children. They attend Welsh school and are involved in various sport activities, which I encourage and support. We love camping and this is somewhat my secret escape. Still, I find the time to enjoy a glass of wine (or two) with my longstanding friends every now and again, not forgetting attending pop concerts (Oh yes, I am a 90s' girl!).
